Proposed Highway Blythe to Ocean Beach---Save 50 Miles to Sea

The above is a map of a major road plan from Blythe, California to Ocean Beach, prepared by the County Planning Commission at the request of Edgar Hastings and presented by him at the San Diego River Flood Control hearing before Major Theodore Wyman, Jr., at the City Hall last Friday morning. This map was introduced as evidence and is now part of the U. S. Army Engineer's records.

It contemplates a road from Ocean Beach following the south bank of the river along the dike to Old Town thence up the San Diego river to Julian then on across the desert to the rich, new, agricultural district at Blythe. This road is over fifty miles shorter to tidewater than the road to San Pedro. This type of thru highway comes under the jurisdiction of a supervisor but not ordinary city street work or roads entirely within the city. City work belongs to the mayor, council and city manager, not the supervisors.

When this road is completed the beaches of San Diego will have at least double the number of summer visitors that we now have and credit is due such far-seeing men as Supervisor Ed Hastings, who are instrumental in visioning and laying out such projects as the above.

MRS. PENNY PASSES AWAY AT SANTA MONICA

Mrs. Celeste A. Penny, beloved wife of Capt. Wm. I. Penny, 4911 Orchard avenue, died Saturday, July 25, at the Santa Monica hospital where she had a blood transfusion a few days previous and was receiving treatment for her illness. The Pennys had made their home in Ocean Beach for fifteen years or more and deceased was aged about 75, a native of Augusta, Maine. Besides the husband, Capt. Penny, to mourn her loss, there is a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Rucci, 710 Ocean Park blvd., Santa Monica. A son preceded the mother in death, several years ago at Ocean Beach. Mrs. Penny will be mourned by her neighbors and friends who were especially fond of her sweet and hospitable manner.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO RICHLEY HARDWARE

Over the Sunday closing, sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning, burglars broke a window and opened the back door of the Richley Hardware at 1926 Bacon street.

Investigation showed that mostly pocket knives were taken but some fishing tackle was also missed and the loot is believed worth more than $100.

For Supervisor 1st district
David C. CLARK
A Democrat and a Veteran

ALBERT H. JOY
Candidate for the State Assembly.

Announcement of his candidacy for the Assembly from the 78th District on the Democratic ticket was made by Albert H. Joy, a resident of San Diego county for 11 years. He was admitted and qualified as an Attorney, Solicitor, Counselor, Proctor and Advocate of the U. S. District Court of Alaska Oct. 29, 1913.

He was for 26 years in the Federal Civil Service. He is a past commander of post 75, Veterans of Foreign Wars and past commander of the United Spanish War Veterans also past president of the Federal Employees Union local No. 63 San Diego. He is a member of Townsend club No. 20 San Diego.

The Democratic Veterans League of San Diego county endorsed him as their choice of the candidates for the 78th Assembly district at their last meeting.

MUNCHIANDO-WALKER WEDDING SUNDAY MORNING

Sunday morning, July 26th at 10 a. m. Miss Alice Munchiando was united in marriage to Clyde E. Walker, the Rev. A. S. Reitz performing the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Munchiando, 4681 Green street.

Miss Munchiando has been a resident here for about a year, coming from Denver, Colorado, with her parents, her father being manager of the meat department of the MacMarr store on Voltaire street.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Walker of El Segundo and is employed at Consolidated Aircraft.

The young folks will make their home at 1813 Bacon street about August 1. A delightful wedding breakfast was served by the bride's mother following the ceremony.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Edna Robertson and the best man Harold Robertson.

Guests at the wedding besides parents of the bride and groom, bridesmaid and best man, were, Mr. and Mrs. James Seeds of El Segundo, Mrs. Edna Glassop of Port Arthur, Ontario, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Spiess, and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Kiegle.

CITY ATTORNEY SPEAKER AT KIWANIS MEETING

James H. McKinney was chairman of the day at Kiwanis luncheon meeting with San Diego City Attorney Ault as guest speaker.

While Mr. Ault has served only three months in his present capacity he has nevertheless had many varied and difficult problems to render decisions on, and apparently is fulfilling a difficult task with a corps of efficient helpers. He realizes the grave responsibilities which confront the heads of city departments and is of the opinion there is opportunity for improvement.

Sam Wickern, brother of Ed, was a welcome visitor. He hails from Los Angeles.

10 More New Subs for Ocean Beach News

A few more new subscribers were added to the Ocean Beach News list last week before our solicitor Pat Coghlan decided on assisting one of our neighboring weeklies in a drive to secure new readers.

About a hundred new names were reported during the past month to which we add the following:

NEWCOMER TO BEACH PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Nanny Schoeppe, beloved wife of Adolf Schoeppe, 4422 Coronado ave., died Thursday night, July 23, after a very brief illness.

Private funeral services were held at Benbough's Saturday morning. Cremation followed.

Deceased was a native of Germany, aged 35, of Bremen. German. A sister-in-law, Mrs. O. Witten of New York, was at the home here when Mrs. Schoeppe died.

The husband and wife came to America about seven years ago and lived at Mt. View California, until the beginning of this year when they moved to Ocean Beach and built a home on Coronado avenue.

BUYS LOTS ON BERMUDA AVE.

F. R. Sessions last week sold lots 9 and 10, block 1's, Bermuda avenue, Ocean Beach, to Alfred E. Zuern, 4914 Santa Monica avenue.

Chamber of Commerce Cuts Meeting Nights

With active community betterment now being served by the Allied Civic association of Ocean Beach the Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night voted to hold but one meeting a month, this to be on the 2nd Monday of each month and to convene at the Newport hotel.

Arthur B. Lester, 2303 Seaside street, was appointed secretary for the balance of the year to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of Heber Hartvigson. Mr. Lester has been a resident and property holder here for quite a number of years and is an employee of the Bank of America.

Communications were read from City Manager R. W. Flack, San Diego Chamber of Commerce, California Chain Stores association and others.

The organization went on record as approving action of the Allied Civic association in having the city park department trim trees which are obstructing sidewalks.

FRIENDS OF ED HASTINGS HAVE DINNER AT BAYBRIDGE

Some over twenty friends of Supervisor Ed Hastings enjoyed a dinner at Baybridge cafe last Friday evening. Following the serving of the repast, Supervisor Hastings told those present, that considering his record of service to this section, and his home being on Point Loma, he thought Ocean Beach voters could do no better than support him for re-election.

Hastings was instrumental in starting the first PWA work on W. Point Loma Blvd., and has responded to every request from the local chamber of commerce and PTA to appear with its directors before city officials and the school board when they have been after additional school facilities or other improvement.

With five candidates in the field it is well to support this local man who will have local interests at heart a great deal more than the candidates who live in other sections of the city.

If Hastings is not elected the board of supervisors will likely be under all inexperienced members, there being at present two men with less than two years experience, and election coming on in the other three districts.

SETTLEMENT MADE IN NORTH SHORE HARDWARE

The San Diego Wholesale Credit Men's association last week mailed checks to creditors of the North Shore Hardware Corporation, which made an assignment last February, following the sudden departure of John Harrison president of the defunct corporation.

The settlement for outstanding accounts was for 15.8594 percent of

Flood Control Plan Fine For Bay and Beach

A broad, straight channel, running from Old Town to the entrance of Mission bay, plus coordinated development of water storage units upstream, form the best methods of providing flood control for the San Diego river, army engineers were told Friday as they began their flood control studies of the river with a public hearing at the city hall.

Testimony at the hearing, presided over by Maj. Theodore Wyman Jr., district army engineer, ranged from comprehensive plans for channels and dams, such as submitted by C. M. Hoopes, city consulting engineer, to pleas of Mission valley residents for relief to prevent their lands from washing into the ocean in the intermittent floods that have ravaged the river.

In between were the appeals of some witnesses for recreational development of Mission bay and the state park board's plea for a consistent flood control program so it could proceed with development of the bay as a recreation center.

Sen. Ed Fletcher's suggestion that two dams on the river would provide virtually complete flood control got a lambasting by various witnesses, who agreed that the dams, while valuable and a part of a comprehensive flood control program, must be supplemented by other works which would function when the dams were full.

Hoopes was called on by Maj. Wyman to direct presentation of the city's case. He opened with the statement that Mission bay is silting up rapidly, due to two causes--sediment deposited by floods and sand washed in by the pounding of the surf on the beach at the bay entrance.

"The upstream conditions must be cared for to keep the silt from coming down," Hoopes said. "I do not attempt to tell the corps of engineers how to stop this but we do recommend that a channel be built from the bay entrance directly to where the mouth of the river was before flood conditions caused it to change. The proper dikes and levees should also be constructed."

"In regard to dams upstream, the state engineer's report did not state that they would offer a complete solution. No engineer ever contends that dams alone stop floods. It is the major floods, which cause the damage. If we get one flood that is a great pity."

Capt. George McKay, presenting Rear Adm. Sinclair Gannon, 11th naval district commandant, spoke strongly for flood control measures. He read a letter from the admiral supporting the Hoopes plan.

Adm. Gannon added the suggestion that the proposed new levee to be built as a southern retaining wall for the projected channel should be widened and paved, offering a direct route from congested portions of the city to the ocean.

Edgar Hastings, county supervisor, said the flood control development would aid the county in its plan to run a road from tidewater to Blythe, via the San Diego river valley. This road, he said, would shorten the distance from Blythe to the ocean by 50 miles and provide a much-needed third primary highway in the San Diego county.

There are great taxation losses caused by floods, Hastings said in urging flood control methods in addition to dams.

"All the dams you can build on the river will not control a major flood," he said, pointing out that when a reservoir starts overflowing it means that the full flood is going downstream.

"We are in accord with any plans that will prevent silting of Mission bay," said J. Covington, secretary of the state park board, adding that flood control is necessary to any proper development of the bay park.

While it was a little out of flood control lines, the army engineers speak of boating and recreational possibilities they believed would be augmented if flood control plans were developed along certain lines. These speakers were headed by Assemblyman Ralph Wallace, who added that he knew nothing of flood control, being a layman, but had confidence in Hoopes and the city engineers in any program they advised for Mission bay.

George N. Speer, of the allied civic association at Ocean Beach, said his group were in full accord with the state and city flood control recommendations.

Attending the hearing for the government engineers were Maj. Wyman; G. B. Behout, area engineer and Howard G. Walters, assist. engineer.

Mrs. Helen Richards, 4845 Muir avenue, has been called away on business for an indefinite period. She hopes to return to Ocean Beach occasionally for a time and later on as a permanent resident.

The original bill.

Mr. Harrison, it is said, made claim for wages in amount of $631, but was persuaded to sign a waiver for his claim.

David C. Clark, candidate for office of supervisor of the first district in announcing his candidacy says: "I have been a resident of San Diego for the past twelve years. I am a married man and the father of two children. I am a taxpayer, having owned my home at 4735 Idaho street for the last ten years. I have had a very successful business career in this city and have taken an active interest in civic affairs. I have made many friends through my honest dealings, and it is my aim to make many more by the same act."

Department heads of the county administration should be selected by the people of their respective district, and not by the power of the money trusts. They should select the man they feel will give them the best service, taking into consideration his qualifications as a business man and knowledge of executive leadership.

"I was a successful manager of the Granada theater in Los Angeles, having taken it when it was on the verge of bankruptcy and bringing it to the top. Also, I successfully managed the Bush Egyptian theater in San Diego, the New National theater in National City, and was for many years a department manager and buyer for Sears, Roebuck and company here. I am now a department manager for one of the largest firms in San Diego."

"Before coming to San Diego I was for four years in the U. S. Government surveying expedition, also, an instructor of economics and organization at Harvard University. I feel that I am well qualified for the office I seek."

"The citizens of San Diego county have a sincere friend in Supervisor B. A. Sweet, who has striven hard to lower your tax rate, has been beaten at every turn from lack of cooperation in the supervisor's office. I feel that he should be given some support at this election and I make this promise to the citizens of the first supervisor's district that, should they choose to elect me to the office of supervisor of the first district, I will give him that support he is so justly due and will devote my entire time to my duties."

"I am against all bond issues. My motto is: Less spending and lower taxes. I am in favor of an adequate old age pension, consolidation of city and county offices where possible, and will strive to stop unnecessary and expensive leaks in the county expense."

"I am a director in the San Diego County Taxpayer's Reduction League, a member of Connolly post No. 75 V.F.W., and the Indiana state society, and a Democrat, but will not let party affiliations enter into the duties of the office."

"My headquarters are at my residence, 4735 Idaho street, and I welcome all volunteer help to call any evening. If you believe in me make this your slogan: David C. Clark for supervisor of the first district. I solicit your vote and help."

SESSIONS SELLS CAFE AND MALTED MILK SHOP

F. R. Sessions has sold the business and leased the store building at 5046 Newport avenue, known as the Beach Cafe and Malted Milk Shop, to Mrs. Eleanor Loftus of Narragansett avenue, who will take possession of the establishment on August the 1st.

Do You Keep Your Friends?

If your friends write letters to you, they retain your friendship, which usually fades out if they don't write. Similarly the store that keeps advertising, keeps its friends, who otherwise would probably lose interest in it.

Crop Damage From Drouth Mounts—Assassin Tries to Kill Edward VIII—Townsend and Coughlin Form Alliance.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

THE nation's drouth worries continued unabated after scattered showers in widely separated areas of the Midwest and the Northwest failed to eliminate the heat. Regions bordering the Great Lakes enjoyed cool breezes brought by a high pressure area from Hudson Bay.

But the meager rainfall in the drouth-stricken belt did little toward bringing relief and crop deterioration continued on a vast scale throughout the parched states.

Loss of life throughout the United States from the unprecedented heat wave exceeded 3,850, an all-time high.

Agronomists in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio expressed apprehension over the outlook for the corn crop unless general rains should develop rapidly.

In principal cities the price of milk was advanced one cent a quart as the result of drouth conditions. Prices of meat, however, dropped with the influx to market of drouth cattle. The possibility of an upward trend later on was seen, however.

Completing a tour of the drouth areas, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared the nation need have no fears of a food shortage, and assailed those "who have tried for their own purposes to scare the consumers about food scarcity." He added: "There is no excuse for substantial increases in food prices now."

Arriving at Bismarck, North Dakota, to help co-ordinate drouth relief enterprises, Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator, was informed that approximately 60,000 farm families in the state were among the needy. A conference of state and federal officials in Bismarck developed a three-fold plan for the relief of dwellers in the desolated areas of the Dakotas, western Minnesota, eastern Montana and Wyoming. These included:

Immediate advancement of money to needy families, repayable out of WPA earnings; granting of funds to farmers desiring to keep small livestock herds for the purchase of feed and subsistence to be repaid by work on WPA projects; loans and grants to owners of large scale cattle enterprises to cover the cost of shipping animals to other states for feeding.

THE attempted assassination of King Edward VIII of England in London brought great alarm to the English speaking world. The attempt was made near Hyde Park and the monarch's life was saved by a woman bystander who grappled with the would-be assassin and wrested a pistol from him.

The king was returning to Buckingham palace from Hyde Park, where on horseback he had presented new colors to six battalions of the Grenadier, Coldstream and Scots guards.

There was unrest in other European capitals. In Madrid, Jose Calvo Sotelo, one of Spain's most powerful monarchist leaders, was kidnapped and murdered. Precautions were taken to guard other political figures, lest the assassination open a new period of disorder between the leftists and rightists. The crisis was heightened by the threat of the Socialists to establish a dictatorship.

In Paris, the celebration of France's national holiday, Bastille day, saw the Champs Elysees a scene of rioting with rightists and leftists in combat with each other and the police. The disorders began when leftists were returning from their own parade in the eastern section of the city. Seeing red flags borne in the procession, the rightists greeted their opponents with cries of "Soviets everywhere."

Hopeful signs for European peace were seen in the withdrawal by Italy from Libya of the first units of 40,000 troops from the Egyptian frontier. The withdrawal of the troops from the North African colony was Italy's answer to Britain's action in recalling its home fleet from the Mediterranean.

IMMEDIATE splitting of the American Federation of Labor into two rival groups was averted by the action of the Federation's executive council in voting to bring to trial on August 3 the union leaders led by John L. Lewis on charges of "dual unionism." It had been reported earlier that the council had voted to suspend the 12 unions grouped as the Committee for Industrial Unionization. The council's action was looked upon as a peace move in the crisis that threatens open warfare in the labor movement. It was precipitated by the drive to organize 500,000 workers in the steel industry into one big industrial union by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and his followers.

The charges against the Lewis group include "competition as a rival organization with the A. F. of L.," fomenting an insurrection within the Federation; violation of contracts they have entered into with the Federation when granted their charters.

AN ALLIANCE between Dr. Francis E. Townsend, Father Charles E. Coughlin and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith in the interests of a third party was announced at the Townsendite convention in Cleveland, attended by 12,000 followers of the California doctor who advocates pensions of $200 per month for every person over sixty.

In an address before the convention, Father Coughlin bitterly denounced the present administration and President Roosevelt and called upon the delegates to follow Dr. Townsend in endorsing the candidacy of William Lemke for the presidency on the Union ticket.

Earlier the New Deal had been the target of both Dr. Townsend and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, now leader of the late Huey Long's share-the-wealth movement.

Townsendite candidates who must run on the Democratic ticket planned a pro-Roosevelt demonstration. Pro-Roosevelt delegations representing 11 states signed a resolution urging that no "merger or fusion" with a third party be made. A tactical victory was won by the New Deal forces in the election of Willis Mahoney, Townsendite-Democratic candidate for senator from Oregon, as chairman of the resolutions committee.

THE arrest of former Lieut. Commander John S. Farnsworth of the United States navy on a charge that he had sold confidential naval data to a Japanese officer marked what observers believed was the beginning of a roundup of persons suspected of supplying navy secrets to foreign powers.

Declaring that he had obtained nothing of importance from the navy and gave nothing to the Japanese that "could not have been obtained in the public library in Washington," Farnsworth at first pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Farnsworth is charged with taking from the Navy department and later selling it to the Japanese government, a book entitled "The Service of Information and General Security." The book is on naval tactics and according to officials, is rated as "confidential."

PREDICTING 1936 will be the best business year since 1930 and "possibly since 1929," Colonel Leonard P. Ayers, economist of Cleveland, declared that statistics on all important business had shown substantial and "healthy increases" since the first of this year. Strikes, drouth and other difficulties have not affected increases in employment, markets and security; exchanges, the economist said.

"More steel has been produced in the first half of 1936 than in all 1932," he pointed out. "A major factor in the increased steadiness of business has been well sustained employment among the factory workers making durable goods. Workers in the durable goods factories suffer most from lay-offs and shut-downs, but such has not been the case in the first half of this year and of last year."

HENRY FORD, approaching his seventy-third birthday, envisioned the eventual decline of farm animals as a source of the world's food and predicted that grains and other crops will largely be substituted for them.

"We can, I believe, get a more plentiful supply of food cheaper and better," he said, "by processing the products of the soil instead of asking cows and chickens to do it for us. In the future farm animals of all kinds will decline in numbers. We won't need them. The farm animal will go, but the farm will become larger."

AFTER dedicating New York's new $64,000,000 Tri-borough bridge, attending the wedding of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark, to Captain Boerge Rohde of the Danish court and spending two days at his Hyde Park home, President Roosevelt embarked on a nautical vacation in Maine and Canadian waters.

On the bridge dedication program with the President were Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Gov. Lehman of New York, Senator Wagner and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City. The bridge is the largest completed public works administration project in the East. It comprises four spans in its three and one-half miles of elevated ways and connects Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens, Long Island. Its cost is second only to that of the Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco.

On the cruise of the Sewana, a 50-foot schooner yacht, President Roosevelt will act as skipper and helmsman. Three of his four sons, James, Franklin Jr. and John, are members of the crew. The cruise will carry the President along the Maine coast to Campobello Island, New Brunswick, where his mother has a summer home and off Nova Scotia where he expects to do some deep sea fishing. A destroyer, the presidential yacht Potomac and the schooner Liberty carrying newspaper men are trailing the Sewana.

Before he returns to the White House, the President will pay a visit to Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada.

A NEW era in European diplomacy was heralded with the signing of a treaty between Germany and Austria re-establishing peace and normal relations between the two nations.

Since Italy has been acting in the role of big brother to Austria in the past two years it was regarded as a virtual certainty that Premier Mussolini had sanctioned the new pact. Observers pointed out that with Germany, Austria and Italy in accord with Poland friendly to Hitler's aims, Europe now has a prospective alliance more powerful than the triple alliance of Germany, Italy and Austria-Hungary preceding the World war.

COMPLETE endorsement of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas was given by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois following a conference in Topeka. Following the conference former Governor Lowden announced that he and Governor Landon were in "full accord" on the question of farm relief.

The Illinois farm leader revealed that he had discussed soil erosion, reciprocal treaties, conservation of farm population, government aid in marketing surplus crops, centralizing of federal power and reduction of federal expenditures with Gov. Landon. Mr. Lowden declared:

"We are in accord on the important agricultural issues. I shall support him and campaign for his election."

Payment of cash federal bounties to soil-conserving farmers through a plan contemplating state administration was one of the farm principles advocated by Mr. Lowden which received the verbal support of Gov. Landon following the conference.

With the Republican presidential nominee at work on his acceptance speech, conferences with other leaders were scheduled. Important among these was the visit of George N. Peek, former AAA administrator who resigned his post following a break with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and is now a New Deal critic. Also on the program was the visit of Col. Frank Knox, Governor Landon's running mate.

At Governor Landon's office a letter was made public from William Cabell Bruce, former Democratic senator from Maryland, saying that he was "bitterly disappointed" in President Roosevelt and "deeply gratified" at Governor Landon's nomination.

In the meantime members of the Kansas legislature had departed for their homes after submitting two constitutional amendments to the state's electorate. One of these would authorize state aid for the needy and the other would approve state participation in the federal social security plan.

FIFTEEN Japanese army officers who were leaders in last February's bloody rebellion in which four high-ranking government officials met assassination, were executed by a firing squad in Tokyo.

Two other officers condemned to death were not shot and no explanation was made by the war office. They were Captain Yoshiaki Nakamura and Captain Asachi Isobe. Unofficial observers believe their lives were temporarily spared so that they might testify in trials of other men accused of complicity in the uprising of February 26 which pushed Japan close to the brink of civil war.

Blooded Horses Are Revered in Kentucky.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

SOME 46,000 acres of land, much of it magnificent virgin forest, will be included in the Mammoth Cave National park in Kentucky. In the long struggle to establish this national park, Maurice H. Thatcher, for many years United States representative from Kentucky, was a prime mover. Discovered in 1803, Mammoth Cave was considered the largest national cavern in America until the exploration of the Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico. The underground passages are of remarkable extent, probably undermining the entire area of the proposed park development. Almost every dweller in the neighborhood has a cave of his own, to which he seeks to attract visitors.

Underground rivers in which swim eyeless fish are a weird feature of the caves. Besides these there are vast stalactites and stalagmites, the best of which are seen in the part of the cavern reached through the New Entrance. A "frozen Niagara" of salmon-colored rock and a stalactite which, when illuminated by an electric light placed behind it, shadows the perfectly molded form of a beautiful woman stepping down as if to bathe in the subterranean river, are unique.

There are onyx caves and crystal caves; one might profitably pass weeks going through them all. It was in one of these that Floyd Collins met his death.

Beyond Mammoth Cave to the west winds the beautiful Green river known as one of the deepest fresh water streams in the country.

In this neighborhood was shed the first Kentucky blood of the Civil war, when Granville Allen was shot. Families were torn asunder by the difference of allegiance. Few states knew the horror of Civil war as did Kentucky. To understand what war meant to the border people, one needs only to be reminded that Jefferson Davis was born near Hopkinsville, not far from Bowling Green, and that Abraham Lincoln was born near Hodgenville, a few miles to the north.

Birthplace of Lincoln.

At Hodgenville, a stately memorial shelters the humble log cabin in which Lincoln was born. Simplicity marks the place as it marked the great soul it fostered. Visitors pause for a drink from the Lincoln spring.

Memories of Lincoln linger in the very air between Hodgenville and Bardonia. To Knob creek the Lincoln family moved before young Abraham was two years old, and there they lived until he was eight. His earliest recollections, he wrote, were of Knob creek, and how he was saved from drowning there by the quick aid of a chum. Not much chance of drowning in the creek now; it is little more than a rivulet.

If there is a house in the world worthy to inspire music, it is "My Old Kentucky Home," near Bardonia. While a guest in the house, then owned by his kinsfolk, the Rowan family, Stephen Collins Foster composed that deathless ballad, "My Old Kentucky Home."

He wrote the music, it is said, at a desk in the wide hall, the sun streaming through the door opening toward the slave quarters. That selfsame desk still stands in its wonted place, the most precious of Kentucky's furniture relics.

Even without the Foster tradition, the home would be priceless. It makes no attempt at ostentation, but it is peopled with ghosts of the fine old South.

In Bardonia is St. Joseph's cathedral, in which are displayed several original paintings by great masters. They are believed to have been a gift to the church by Louis Philippe.

Not far from the town is Gethsemane, a retreat of Trappist monks, one of two such monasteries in the United States.

Louisville, the city of George Rogers Clark, comes next on your itinerary, northwestward over an excellent highway. It was there that the doughty soldier ended his days in bitterness over the ingratitude of the nation he had spent his all to aid.

At Louisville, too, are the home and tomb of President Zachary Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready." His daughter Knox was wooed and won by Jefferson Davis, then a young lieutenant in the general's command.

To lovers of horse racing, Louisville is a mecca when the Kentucky Derby is run at Churchill Downs.

Where Baseball Bats Are Made.

At the Louisville Slugger factory, baseball bats for many of the famous players are hand-turned by skilled workmen. The second-growth ash comes to the factory in rough billets. These billets are rounded and laid on racks to season for 17 months before they are made into bats. Because ball players are particular about the weight and balance of their bats, each step in the shaping of the sluggers requires the utmost care. Special orders are prepared by hand workers.

From Louisville it is a pleasant trip to Frankfort, the hill-encircled capital of Kentucky. The old Statehouse, now a museum, is an architectural gem of pure Greek design. Within it is a self-supporting circular stairway, one of the few remaining. The new Statehouse is a splendid structure, with a magnificent rotunda under the vaulted dome.

It is strangely fitting that Daniel Boone is buried in the cemetery overlooking the capital of the state he helped win from the wilderness. From the path around his tomb one looks down to the broad valley of the beautiful Kentucky river.

The heart of the Blue Grass is the home of the thoroughbred. To one who has striven futilely, baffled by crab grass, to encourage a lawn, the sight of those blue-grass pastures brings mixed feelings. One does not feel outraged to see splendid horses browsing on such lawns, but one is hard put to escape taking affront at cows and sheep feeding on the velvety carpets.

Horses in the Blue Grass are monarchs of the earth. On some of the famous farms the huge circular stables house quarter-mile exercise tracks floored with tanbark.

The thoroughbred is nurtured more carefully than a baby-show contender. A few hours after he is born he is fitted with a halter, that he may become used to the equipment. He is permitted out of doors only when conditions are exactly right. If he scratches his silky skin, he is plastered with antiseptic and put in a hospital. He drinks only from his own special bucket and his diet would be the despair of a French chef.

The owner of one farm cut by a highway has a tunnel under the road through which his thoroughbreds may be led without danger from passing automobiles.

There is a thrill in visiting the stable that housed Man-o-War, Golden Broom, Crusader, and Mars.

Lexington Is Charming.

In itself Lexington has a wealth of charm as well as historic interest. The University of Kentucky is there, its mellow old buildings scattered over a shady campus. In the study room at the College of Engineering, heavy tables, with tops fashioned of thick sections of a venerable sycamore tree that once grew on the campus, are treasured relics covered with carved names of alumni.

Another fine educational institution in Lexington is Transylvania college, the first school for higher education west of the Alleghenies. There Jefferson Davis and Henry Clay were once students. The library of this school contains thousands of volumes so rare that scholars from all over the world come to consult them.

Ashland, restored home of Henry Clay, stands on the outskirts of the city. On the walk behind the house the magnetic orator and statesman used to pace back and forth planning his speeches.

Through the perfect green of the Blue Grass country you may drive to High Bridge, where a railroad bridge 317 feet above the water spans the Kentucky. Crossing the river on a ferry, you approach old Shakertown, once the home of a strange sect who believed in celibacy and the coming of the millennium.

Another place of interest in a swing south of Lexington is the old fort at Harrodsburg, where George Rogers Clark planned his campaigns. The fort has been restored and is open as a museum.

Old Centre college at Danville attracts you because of the heroic victories of the "Praying Colonels" football team.

At Berea college you see the remarkable results of vocational education brought to mountain whites. One cannot escape a feeling of humility at sight of the industry of these students.

Tales and Traditions from American Political History

FRANK E. HAGEN AND ELMO SCOTT WATSON

DARK HORSE

WITH President Roosevelt's re-nomination by the Democrats a certainty for a long time and the selection of Governor Landon strongly indicated for several months before the Republican convention met, this wasn't a year for "dark horses." A "dark horse" is American political slang applied to a man who is not generally mentioned as a candidate previous to a convention but who wins the nomination when the delegates fail to agree on one of the leading candidates.

The phrase started as English racing slang, originating in the practice by jockeys of dyeing black the hair of fast horses in order to enter them in races under another name and thereby being able to "clean up" in the betting. Gradually the use of the term was extended to apply to any horse, regardless of its color, which won unexpectedly and similarly it was applied to candidates for public office.

American political history affords a number of examples of dark horses capturing the Presidential nomination but only a very few of them have gone on to occupy the White House. In 1844 James K. Polk of Tennessee won the Democratic nomination at Baltimore when there was a deadlock between ex-President Martin Van Buren, and Lewis Cass. In the election he defeated Henry Clay, the Whig, and became the first "dark horse" President.

Again in 1852 the Democrats assembled in Baltimore and again Lewis Cass was a leading candidate with James Buchanan and Stephen A. Douglas furnishing the principal competition for the nomination. But again there was a deadlock and when the tide turned toward Franklin Pierce, again there was a stampede and this "dark horse" from New Hampshire was nominated. In the election he defeated the Whig candidate, Gen. Winfield Scott.

As for the Republicans in 1876 they passed up their strongest man, James G. Blaine of Maine, and his principal opponent, O. P. Morton of Indiana, and gave the nomination to Gov. R. B. Hayes, Ohio's "favorite son," who defeated Samuel Tilden, the Democratic candidate.

In 1880 they turned down Ex-President Grant's bid for a third term, again passed over Blaine, failed to rally to John Sherman of Ohio, another strong contender, and finally selected another Buckeye "dark horse"—Gen. James A. Garfield. The most recent Republican "dark horse" to win the nomination and election was still another Ohioan—Sen. Warren G. Harding, who was chosen after the Lowden and Wood deadlock at the Chicago convention of 1920 had been tied up in a deadlock between Gen. Leonard Wood and Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

G. O. P.

PERHAPS you never heard of a young printer named T. B. Dowden, but he was the man who was responsible for G. O. P. being synonymous for the Republican party. It came about in this way:

In 1884, the year that the Republicans finally nominated James G. Blaine for the Presidency, young Dowden applied for work at the Cincinnati Gazette and got it. About 2:30 o'clock one morning, just before the Gazette went to press, Dowden took from the copy hook a piece of copy marked "Must go in ten lines." He began setting it in type and, as he finished, found himself in difficulty. "My copy ends with 'Grand Old Party' and I have two words left over after I've set the ten lines," he told the foreman of the shop, "What shall I do?"

"Throw 'em away and use your intelligence!" exclaimed the foreman impatiently. "No, wait cut 'em short . . . get 'em in some way! Abbreviate 'em . . . use initials . . . do anything, but hurry up. This page is going to be late!"

So Dowden went back to his case and the next morning the Gazette came out with this sentence on the front page: "The Hon. James G. Blaine will address the meeting on 'Achievements of the GOP.'"

At the meeting that night the Republican candidate was concluding a two-hour speech when a voice floated down from the gallery: "Why don't you tell us something about GOP and what it did?"

"Why, my friend," retorted Blaine, "I've been talking about GOP all evening. The word GOP contains the initial letters of the Grand Old Party and that is its official and abbreviated name."

The audience roared with laughter but Blaine didn't crack a smile. He little realized that he had given currency to an expression which would become a familiar trademark to millions—a trademark attached to a major political party by a hurried young printer named T. B. Dowden.

Bob Davis Reveals

Secrets That Came to the Mountain on Wings of the Morning

PEACOCK ALLEY, a western institution unequaled as a source of publicity and brought into existence by George Boldt when he built the Waldorf in New York, has a branch here.

Like the old P. A. of Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, where the Empire State building now spikes the sky for a world's record, the Tokyo promenade supplies quite an eyeful to those who would look and see.

Pageantry of all peoples; a passing show bewildering in its variety and color; warp and woof of the world. India, Asia, Africa, the drab, inquisitive European; the bordered Briton, the ambitious show-me American, in funds, and also in trade, each on his own, pass in spectacular review.

Detaching themselves from the procession, a man and woman, dressed in dark colored ceremonial kimonos indicating some sect in native priesthood, took seats immediately adjoining mine and became absorbed in the panorama.

Without loss of time I made a remark in English, to which the man replied in kind. "My wife," said he, "does not understand your language. She is here in Tokyo for the first time. Our home is on Mount Koya, at the Shingon Buddhist seat founded eleven hundred years ago by Kobo Daishi. I am a priest."

Clergyman Takes Bride

"Are Buddhist priests permitted to marry?"

"Oh, yes, for many years under Shingon matrimony has been encouraged. My present visit to Tokyo has to do with arrangements for the marriage of a young Buddhist clergyman of the Shingon sect, now residing in California."

"For more than a thousand years the priesthood on Mount Koya, which is scored with temples, were not allowed to marry or to eat meat, nor were women permitted within the sacred precincts consecrated to Buddhist teachings."

"With the advance of modern thought it was deemed expedient to introduce marriage, although vegetarian diet continued for some time. Gradually, however, the restrictions against meat were broken down, the wives of the priests taking rather kindly to the mixed diet, which brought about a pronounced physical improvement among the disciples and their children. A sensible and progressive step, I regard it."

At this juncture of the conversation two Hindu women, garbed in flowing silken robes and bedecked with gold bracelets, bangles and anklets jangling softly as they moved down Peacock Alley, passed in front of us.

New World Opens Up

With wide eyes the wife of the Buddhist priest watched the dusky women of India saunter along, jostled by Europeans and Japanese women clothed in rainbow hued flowing kimonos, their dark hair arranged in modish fashion and gleaming with decorations.

"All of this beauty appears to-night for the first time to my wife's eyes," said the priest, himself lured by its splendor. "She will talk endlessly of these things: when we return to the sacred mountain, and there is no knowing what thoughts will come to her."

The sound of music drifting in from a ballroom off the promenade smote our ears. Through the procession of human peacocks; thinning out at intervals we caught glimpses of dancers.

"... and of the Western world gliding, laughing without restraint and merging thus," continued the holy man from Mount Koya, where for centuries his forebears walked in the cool of the morning and accompanied by their prayers the setting sun, "she has known nothing until now. That which is written upon her face betrays nought but uncertainty."

Cooking Via Radio

"The sun also rises," I said. "Yes," he replied, "but will it set? The sky is filled with color and the air with new voices."

"You refer to radio? Has this speech upon the ether reached the mountain of the faithful?"

"Yes, but of these things I would speak with approval, for it is on the invisible wave that my wife learned the secrets of western cooking. What skill she has acquired in the art of preparing food for stomachs that have come to appreciate the combination wrought over fire, of blending vegetables and meat, of making a ceremony out of what in the past was a mere detail to sustain life, is not to be dismissed lightly."

"It is well that this wisdom, which arrived upon the wings of the morning, should be spread among all peoples. And it is good that from day to day the companion of my bosom should, by way of the air, add to her supply of learning."

Traveling Clinic Brings Health to Children

If little Johnny or Mary, living in a remote section of the 1,094 square miles included in the large Los Angeles school district, has a toothache, infected tonsils, bad eyes, or any minor physical ailment, his parents don't worry. For soon the traveling healthmobile, the only one of its kind in America, will be along with its staff of oculist, dentist, and nurse. The unique healthmobile is a part of the medical service furnished the Los Angeles schools, and which penetrates to every little hamlet and community in the vast empire of the school district. The carload of health constantly travels from school to school, filling teeth, taking out tonsils, testing eyes, and caring for children who would otherwise be neglected.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

JERRY MUSKRAT'S TROUBLES BEGIN

JERRY Muskrat watched Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter start on their journeys. Billy was going to a distant brook. Little Joe was going to the Big River. Both intended to stay away until they were sure the trapper, who had just begun to make trouble along the Laughing Brook, would be so discouraged that he would take up his traps.

When Jerry had said good-by to Billy Mink and Joe Otter there had been something of wistfulness in his squeaky voice. The fact is, Jerry would have loved to go visiting also. But he knew that it was quite out of the question. In the first place, he is a slow traveler on land, and he felt that on land he would be in even more danger than if he stayed at home, despite those dreadful traps. Then, again, winter would soon come and he must be prepared for it if he would live through it. Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter do not have to prepare for winter, but Jerry does.

So Jerry sat on the top of his house and watched Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter out of sight. Then he sighed. Then sighed again. "I suppose," he muttered, "my troubles are just beginning. These traps Billy Mink told about were set for him, but I know trappers well enough to know that sooner or later there will be some traps set especially for me."

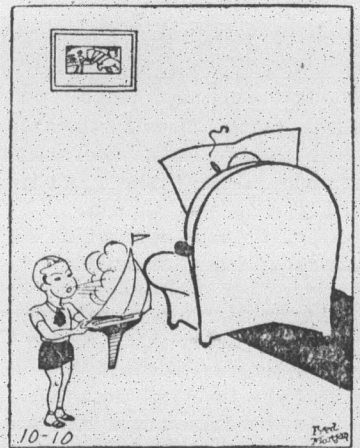

Jerry was quite right. Early the next morning as he was making his breakfast on a lily root he caught sight of some one coming down the Laughing Brook. It wasn't Farmer Brown's Boy. It was a stranger. This stranger kept stopping and examining every old log in the water and every hole along the bank. He stopped at three of Jerry's favorite eating places and studied them. Jerry knew just what that meant.

"That's that dreadful trapper," thought Jerry. "He's trying to find out where I am in the habit of going so that he may set traps there. It's clear to me that from now on I shall have to watch my step every time I move."

After the stranger had left, Jerry swam to the places where the stranger had stopped. At each one of them his nose was tickled with a delicious smell. At one place he smelled a carrot, and Jerry is very fond of carrot. At another place he smelled apple, and if there is any one thing that Jerry Muskrat likes it is apple. He was greatly tempted, was Jerry Muskrat. It seemed to him that he must go ashore and get those good things to eat. But he didn't. He just plunged his head under water so that he could no longer smell those things and then swam over to his house to think things over.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

HELPFUL HINTS

SWEETS have always been popular with the ladies, and so a box of candy is often a smoother of the way, in cases mild or serious.

Slice any rich candy bar very thin and spread or lay between ginger snaps.

Moisten chopped figs with orange juice and a bit of lemon juice, heated over water until smooth, add chopped peanuts and use for a sandwich spread.

Spread small crackers with quince jelly and sprinkle with chopped walnuts; cover with another cracker.

Fancy cakes and cookies may serve for dessert in an emergency. Small ginger cookies, put together with melted marshmallows or any good candy bar. Vanilla wafers made into sandwiches with melted peanut candy or caramels softened to spread. Crackers with white of egg, chopped marshmallows and nuts baked in a quick oven make delightful little cakes to serve with a cup of tea or chocolate.

A few cans of pineapple on the emergency shelf will be found most desirable for any number of dishes. It is ready in the form of rich slices to be used as they are with meats, or shredded, or in small cans in cubes to be used as garnish for frozen dishes and other desserts.

THE NEW WORD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

TODAY perhaps you heard A word You never heard before, Yet think there is no land At hand For mortals to explore, Behold a continent, Content To leave it still unknown, When you the trail might take And make That land, that word, your own.

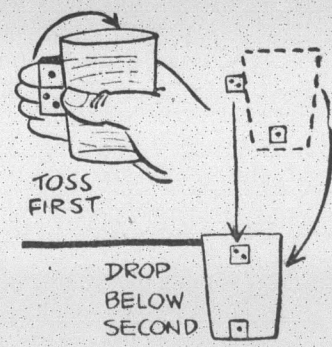

Oh, never let the word You heard Remain a mystery. Right then take down the book And look, Yes, look it up to see. For, there is more to hold Than gold, Another wealth to reach, A fortune for the mind To find— It is a wealth of speech.

TRY THIS TRICK

By PONJAY HARRAH

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc.

Catching the dice is a game that looks easy but proves impossible when people try it, unless they know the secret.

A small cup is held in one hand. The thumb and fingers encircle the cup; between them, they hold a small cube; one of a pair of dice. The second cube is placed upon the first.

The object is to toss each of the dice separately, catching them one by one in the cup; and keeping them there. Thus the fun begins; for after the first cube is bagged, the tossing of the second causes the first to jump out.

The way to do the trick is not to toss the second cube at all. Simply release it. Swoop downward with the cup and catch the last of the dice while it is falling.

Helpers

THERE is something very heartening in the knowledge that we can all help each other, and that the worst suffering of all—that of loneliness or bereavement—need never be an actual desolation; for there is always someone ready to save the deepest wound with the balm of sympathy, and the warm clasp of some comforting hand, the tears in some kind eyes are the surest proofs that the heart under its human aspect has the power to call the hidden soul to life.

One may always begin again who keeps his enthusiasm.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS

It is a generally accepted fact that the power of the press is a mighty factor in the world today; its influence can work endless benefit or it can perform unlimited destruction. The printed word has toppled thrones, broken down imperial structures and overthrown executive influences. Political power in all its colossal enormity, cannot stand against the printed word. The influence of the press.

The newspaper is a gigantic institution, involving billions of dollars in expensive equipment, printing presses and costly buildings. Benjamin Franklin founded the first daily newspaper in America. It was called the American Daily Advertiser, published in Philadelphia in 1774. Franklin was proud of his great undertaking, although on a small scale. He alone gave to the newspaper world the suggestiveness as being a potent factor, wielding its influence with great power such as known as "the power of the press." He saw through the operation of the mighty printing press, the hundreds of thousands of copies, possible to produce from a single form of type. There was no auxiliary force then as well as now that could defeat the printed page.

It was Franklin's genius mind that coined the familiar proverb, "Printers' ink makes millions think," and its work has been going on since with a power of influence that has awakened the world to the fact that millions today depend on the printing press, not only for its literary influence, but its value as an employer of other millions whose livelihood depends upon its resources.

Who will deny the power of the press, after considering its growth since Franklin put out his initial number 162 years ago? It was a brave undertaking, but an experiment that not one in a million would have risked his money and time.

Postmaster General Farley is to take a vacation from the President's Cabinet, in effect after August 1st, and lasting until after election. Like all "good politicians" who have an eye on their job, it is understood that Jim Farley will manage Pres. Roosevelt's campaign, because he happens to be one of those good politicians. There are five national political parties in the field this year and candidates for the high and low jobs, and with the job-seeking constituents, the campaign is the chief business ahead for the next three months. Both major parties have moved their headquarters from Washington—the Democrats to New York City and the Republicans to Chicago. Both have mapped out their campaign strategy, and have a long string of speakers for the soapbox and radio. The Democrats for Roosevelt and Garner, and the Republicans for Landon and Knox; but the voter need not cast his lot with either major parties this year, with at least five presidential tickets in the field. The other three parties, Prohibition ticket headed by David Leigh Colvin and Claude A. Watson. The Socialists have chosen Norman M. Thomas and George Nelson. The Communists party has selected Earl W. Browder and James W. Ford.

There is an old saying that has been repeated until it is "threadbare", that "he was too honest to succeed in his business." Such an assertion is a misnomer; on the other hand too many are not honest enough to succeed. It takes confidence and faith both in the business man and those with whom he deals to make himself a success, not only in business but every thing else. Confidence or faith is always behind one's credit. Tennyson speaks of "the mighty hope that makes us men." In the crucial experiences of life, the great steady, saving thing is our faithful determination, which is faith in others as well as ourselves. Therefore, one of the perils of this intimidating age is that loss of faith! That insatiable passion for greed has destroyed that saving principle of honest integrity in a great many. These are a "reed shaken by the wind," bending to popular opinion for popular applause, whether or not it elevates the mind and character. There is always a compelling force at work within, and it casts an honest will which always helps in business or special activities.

Amelia Earhart Putman is America's Queen of Aviation; she is the most beloved, the kindest and generous-hearted of all her sex; Thus she has earned the deepest affection from all who know her. She has won fame in aviation what Charles A. Lindbergh achieved years before her. This leading spirit of the air is about ready to take the delivery of a new twin-motor plane. Although no definite plans have been announced, rumors and the special equipment of this new type of plane indicate Miss Earhart will do considerable flying during the next year. It is said that she will work in cooperation with the aeronautical research department of Purdue University, and that her plans may even include a four-hop trip around the world. Special equipment on the new plane includes extra fuel tanks which give the ship a flying range of 4,500 miles, a robot pilot, a two-way radio telephone, de-icing appliances, and various other devices. These modern improvements will aid in giving her the best equipped, safest and most enjoyable air-palace afloat. Her taste for adventure makes her the most valuable research scientist in the world!

California excels in good highways. The building of good roads and their upkeep always entails extraordinary expense, and as long as travel continues there will be no end to building boulevards. California's gasoline tax money being devoted to highway construction has proved the greatest asset to civil and social progress for the Golden State. It would be hard to find a more or better inclined state for road advancement, in proportion to the population than our own State of California. There was a time when highways in this state were no boast; but that was when we had few autos and the trails were rutty, muddy and almost inadequate to safe travel. The work has gone forward in keeping with the many additional autos for each month. The "good roads movement" began here in 1913; today we have a highway system as good as any in the United States. They have cost more than a billion dollars and 25 years of hard toil.

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to consignee's door.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

California Business Continues Improvement

Business activity in California for the first half of 1936 was considerably higher than the level of the like period of the last four years, according to a summary published in the July issue of the Bank of America Business Review.

In every month of this year to date, western business index has shown an increase over the corresponding months of the preceding four years.

In the first six months of 1936, the average index figure was 73.8, which was 12.8 per cent above the average for the first half of 1935, 14.8 per cent above 1934, 28.1 per cent above 1933 and 12.7 per cent above the 1932 half-year period.

Building and construction in thirty-two California cities for the first six months of 1936 showed the outstanding percentage gain of all business indicators with an increase of 57 per cent, over the like period of 1935. Building permits for June, 1936 amounted to $14,272,403, which is an increase of $6,219,431, or 77.2 per cent, above June 1935.

Bank debits of fifteen cities in the state of California for the first six months of 1936 totaled $12,534,253, 692,000, or 20.5 per cent, over the value of bank debits registered in the same California cities during the corresponding months of 1935. June debits gained 14.7 per cent over 1935.

The index of farm prices received by California farmers for twenty-four products during the first half of 1936 exceeded the level of half-year 1935. The June index was 20.7 per cent higher than last year.

June was the sixth consecutive month in 1936 in which the value of retail sales in California showed an increase over the corresponding month of 1935. The percentage gain for June was 14.7, the largest gain of any month this year over the like month of 1935.

FRATERNAL AND PATRIOTIC PARADE AT EXPO SUNDAY

Sunday August 2nd, has been designated as fraternal and patriotic day at America's Exposition. The drill teams, drum corps, bands and officers of all fraternal and patriotic organizations are asked to participate in the parade and competitive drills on that day. The parade will be limited to the aforesaid units who are to appear in their official regalia so that this may be a very colorful occasion. All participants report at the fire station gate not later than 12:30 with their leader and your marching number will be given, parade to move promptly at 1 p.m.

The day is to be completed with a dance at the Palace of Entertainment at 8:30 with J. Ward Hutton's orchestra furnishing the music.

FLEET RESERVE TO CLOSE CHARTER

According to an announcement made last week by Pres. Hugh Reynolds, the charter for Ocean Beach branch No. 80, Fleet Reserve association, will be closed definitely on Saturday evening, Aug. 8, and the last meeting prior to the charter closing will be held Friday evening, Aug. 7.

The local branch is nearing 50 members since the charter was granted two weeks ago, and since the first organization meeting was held four weeks ago.

All eligible members of the association, fleet and marine corps reserves, men who are on the retired list of the navy or corps, and men who have eight years' honorable service, and who still are serving in the navy, are cordially invited to attend the meeting Aug. 7, at the American Legion hall, 1957 Abbott st., and to associate themselves with the local branch.

The Fleet Reserve association has been called the most exclusive veterans' organization in the world, for the fact that men must have served over a long period of years to become a member. Many important matters are to come before the meeting, and all members are urged to attend.

Livestock Board Backs Beef Sale Drive

An appeal to Safeway Stores, Inc., and other chain food stores of the nation to aid in the marketing of beef in the interests of cattle raisers throughout the United States has just been issued by the National Livestock and Meat board and other livestock associations, it was announced today.

Responding to this call for distribution assistance, Safeway officials have revealed that they will wage an aggressive farmer-consumer campaign during August to aid in stimulating a greater consumption of beef throughout the country. Similar in scope and magnitude to the recent successful peach campaign conducted by chain stores, this new sales program for beef will be of direct benefit to more than 6,000,000 cattlemen in all parts of the nation, Milton Heller, Safeway divisional manager for San Diego, declared.

Joining the National Livestock and Meat board in the request for distribution assistance were the National Livestock Marketing association and the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association.

The entire situation was so serious that it could be remedied only by prompt and efficient action on a nation-wide scale," Mr. Heller said.

"The livestock leaders recognized the advantages and cooperative effort symbolized by the chain stores and consequently appealed to them for immediate assistance.

"Safeway has been engaged for many years in waging just such farmer-consumer campaigns whenever any unit of agriculture was faced with a serious problem of marketing and distribution.

"We hope to make millions of people 'beef conscious' and as a result stimulate an immediate increased consumption of this important food product."

Consumers throughout the nation will also benefit as a result of the campaign due to the prevailing beef prices which are estimated to be more than 25 per cent below prevailing prices a year ago and more than 20 per cent below average prices over a 10-year period, it was stated.

STORY OF DREAM CHILD BROUGHT TO LIFE

Dear Brutus:

The San Diego School of the Theater, a project of the adult education department of the San Diego City schools will present James M. Barrie's fantasy, "Dear Brutus", Monday evening, August 3, at Roosevelt auditorium. The play is directed by Irma Case Brown.

The plot centers about a dream child who is brought to life, and about her father and the woman he married. The play is considered by many critics to be Barrie's smoothest and most mature work, and the characterizations are tragic and humorous by turns.

Those in the cast include Dorothy Bean, Lucille Knowles, Louise Bowen, Grace Knutsen, Olive Hockaday, Melane Romero, Ken Payson, Everett Coffin, Karl Busch, Eugene Browne, Horace Gearhardt.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text is from I John: "He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love."

The Lesson-Sermon includes these Bible passages from Ezekiel: "Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land; and I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king to them all; and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all: My tabernacle also shall be with them; yea, I will be their God, and they shall be my people."

Among the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are the words: "With one Father, even God, the whole family of man would be brethren; and with one Mind and that God, or good, the brotherhood of man would consist of Love and Truth, and have unity of Principle and spiritual power which constitute divine Science."

JUNE GASOLINE TAX IS $4,162,510.27

Sacramento, July 25.—Closing the fiscal year with a continuance of the gain in gasoline taxes which has prevailed during the entire period, California motor vehicle fuel tax assessments for June reached a total of $4,162,510.27. This was announced here today by Ray Edgar, member of the State Board of Equalization, upon the completion of the three cents per gallon assessments for the last calendar month.

"An all time high has been recorded in the gasoline taxes for the year ended June 30, 1936," said Edgar. "During the past twelve months there have been taxable distributions of 1,577,359,735 gallons of motor vehicle fuel, bringing the State revenue of $46,847,585.42.

California's registrations for all types of vehicles have just established a new all-time record on July 10 for the first six months of the year, exceeding the total registrations of 1935. Compared with the first six months of 1935, 168,200 more automobiles, trucks and trailers have just been registered this year and the fees for this period were over a million dollars more than for the same period last year, according to Howard E. Deems, registrar of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

"This new record established in six months ranks California equal in registrations to thirteen adjoining western states, including Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Nebraska," stated Deems.

THE word "boyce" has established a firm place for itself in the English Language, although it made its first appearance only a little more than fifty years ago. The word derives from a Captain Boycott, a land agent in County Mayo, Ireland, whose difficulties with the Irish Land League in 1880 brought it into use. The word, in varying forms, is also found in the French, German, Russian and other European Languages.

What is wrong with this sentence? "I am going to do my hair like you do yours." The sentence should read—"I am going to do my hair as you do yours." One thing is like another. You do a thing as someone else does it.

GETTING SOMEWHERE

The two tramps were stretched out on the green grass. Above them was the warm sun, beside them was a babbling brook. It was a quiet, restful, peaceful scene. "Boy," mused the first tramp contentedly, "right now I wouldn't change places with a guy who owns a million bucks!" "How about five million?" asked his companion. "Not even for five million," drowsed the first tramp. "Well," persisted his pal, "how about ten million bucks?" The first tramp sat up. "That's different," he admitted. "Now you're talking real dough!" —Mark Hellinger in the New York American.

SOME HELP

The Start

A surgeon, an architect and a politician were arguing as to whose profession was the oldest. Said the surgeon: "Eve was made from Adam's rib, and that surely was a surgical operation." "Maybe," said the architect, "but prior to that, order was created out of chaos, and that was an architectural job." "But," interrupted the politician, "somebody created the chaos first!"

HEART ACHES

Silken pillows one, two, three
What bitter sweet memories you bring to me.

Two of you lie under my head
While the smallest of you, with poppies so red,
I hold in my arms, all thro' the night,
For you were once my child's delight.
—Mary Jane

LOCAL GIRL MARRIED
AT OAKLAND JULY 24

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Myer of 4720 Pescadero avenue, have announced the marriage of their daughter Dorothy to Helg Erickson, who were married last Friday.

The First Methodist church of Oakland was the scene of the wedding, where only a few intimate friends gathered. The couple returned to San Diego Sunday where they will make their home at 2962 "B" street.

Mr. Erickson is known to his many local friends as being a conductor on the Ocean Beach street car.

NATIONAL CITY BOY WEDS
LOCAL GIRL AT YUMA

Tuesday evening, July 28th, a surprise party and shower was held at the home of Miss Ruby Barrett, 4602 Narragansett avenue, for Mr. and Mrs. Vincent P. Montana who surprised their friends at Ocean Beach July 18th by eloping to Yuma Arizona.

The bride, formerly Miss Constance Ann McConnell, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al McConnell of 1430 Froude st., and a June 1936 graduate of Point Loma High school.

Mr. Montana is from National City where he is employed by the water company.

A splendid entertainment was enjoyed by the large gathering of the couple's friends which included featured dances by Miss Frances McConnell, sister of the bride.

The list of guests present included: Messrs. and Mesdames A. McConnell, Joe Morris, Rud Nagel, Jay Neilson and John Sharpe.

Mesdames E. F. Hall, O. D. Logan, J. Bradley, R. O. Pinains, N. H. Craven, and Bobbie Scott.

AMERICANA

By Ellsworth Floyd Whalen

Of interest to Southern Californians, is the large number of middle western people coming out to the Pacific coast to escape the terrific heat found in the inland States. A great part of Southern California's prosperity depends upon tourist trade. Just how much the people from the middle west can afford to spend in California on luxuries and amusements is hard to determine; nevertheless, the money they do spend in this region of America helps to keep the employment figures up. Thus, the scales of profit and loss are somewhat balanced within our international boundary lines.

With Spain and France involved in the task of trying to form government under radical rule, America seems to be swinging to the conservative right side of government. Perhaps our observations of other nations attempting to create immediate prosperity by experimenting with radical forms of government has taught us the lesson that security lies in pragmatism: A pragmatic form of government that we know is practical because it works successfully. All persons have their own ideas on the ideal government, but many Americans living under such ideas, never have time to stop and see whether or not their ideal government plans would function in a practical manner. It's easy to criticize a government; often hard to help it.

Among the many questions asked his writer pertaining to aerodynamics "have you ever made a parachute jump, and if not, why?" Having never made a parachute jump, my answer has always been in the negative. Nothing is to be gained by making parachute jumps as far as experience goes, as making an emergency jump and making a voluntary jump are as different as night and day. One has enough thrills every day trying to preserve his life while driving an automobile around without the necessity of adding any more thrills by jumping out of airplanes.

Diesel motor cars are very slow in making their public appearance. Tests on Diesel engines for automobiles have been going on from time to time on the Indianapolis speedway with favorable results. Why some prominent automobile manufacturer has not produced a Diesel automobile for the public is still a mystery unless the efficiency of such an engine has been overestimated in relation to that of the conventional gasoline engine found in the modern automobile.

Many nickles given to children to buy something to eat with are going into the slots of nickel amusement machines every day all over the nation. It's time the American child should be taught to obtain value for his spending money. These nickel machines found in drug stores and other places of a like nature, while harmless for adults to play, merely creates a desire to "win" something, even if it is an inexpensive form of gambling. The child seeing adults wasting their money on such machines, can see no reason why he should not play them, with the result that he usually does.

There is one thing that seems to be growing every day, it's the strength of the Townsend organization. With millions behind the plan, it's only a matter of time before the people of America will be called upon to decide whether or not they want the Townsend method of reaching social security.

A young lady was telling the writer that one of the best ways to discourage a person from drinking who has already acquired the habit, is to take a motion picture of the said person while he is in his intoxicated dilemma and show it to him when he sobers up. Without doubt such a picture would change the mind of many people on the value of intoxicants as a drink.

There seems to be a definite trend towards symphony music, especially from the younger generation. Once the music of the old master is being acclaimed as inspiring. Public schools are doing a fine job of promoting culture in the finer arts. America is not only entering a new era in social welfare, but one in the development of the social graces as well.
